Artemus Ward

WHAT BECAME OF HIS MONEY [illegible] HIS INTIMATE FRIEND [illegible] MONEY FOR HIS MONUMENT

[illegible] Correspondence of the [illegible]
PORTLAND [illegible] 1868

[illegible] the Atlantic who are interested in having this explanation as full and satisfactory as possible.

As I was born and raised with poor Artemus and was his bosom friend in life and in death I may be able to enlighten you somewhat. When Artemus Ward left New York he calculated himself worth about $1[illegible]000 aside from his estate at Yonkers on the Hudson for which he paid $5 000. He went to London [illegible] but it was some time before he got fairly to work and his agent Hingston informed me when I was there last summer (a year) that it cost £700 for Ward to get started on paying basis in a great city like London, notwithstanding he was known there. Gold at that time was ranging at [illegible] which would make the amount in greenbacks about $6 500.

This amount, with other and contingent expenses probably consumed more than half his available means before he opened at Egyptian Hall. That he made very largely by his writings and lectures in England is true; that he had lived frugally is not so true. It was simply impossible for a genial whole-souled generous fellow like Ward with such hosts of friends and such surroundings [illegible] to live frugally, but that he did make money rapidly and that there is no reason for believing that after his funeral expenses were paid there were no assets left to his estate is correct in toto.

Artemus Ward's will was no joke but a deliberately-drawn document in the presence of witness. Ward refused to make a will when first requested by his agent and friend Mr Hingston and the American Consul (I think it was) went to Ward's room and told him that he could not live and that it was his duty to make a will, adding, "I know your business is joking Ward, but this is no joke, and no time for joking," and Ward was finally prevailed upon to make his will. That he knew what he was about at the time is evidenced by the language he used and the disbursements he ordered:

"Give my library to the best boy in the village school in my native town. Send (large his boy) to a printing office to learn the trade that he may there learn how little he knows." And then his fondness for little children whom he had loved to pet developed itself in bequeathing $500 to each of the two children of my agent Hingston, "and $1 000 to be given to each of the children of my old friend [illegible] of my native town," (there being four or five of them). There were some other minor gifts and then the balance (thought to be some $20 000) was to be put at interest for the benefit of his mother, and after her demise the whole was to go to Horace Greely, to be invested in a Home for Aged and Indigent Printers. "Now what has been done with all this property?" you naturally ask and I have been asked the question a thousand times since Ward's death and never oftener than I have in this city where I lectured only last Monday evening, the 16th, for the purpose of raising funds to build a monument on his grave, which is at Waterford Oxford county, Maine, where his mother now lives. "Where has the money gone?" inquire the people whom I solicit to patronize an entertainment for the purpose mentioned. In the first place Ward's sickness was attended with great expense as he changed physicians as often as freak or fancy dictated and they of course charged accordingly. Then his burial expenses in London were heavy; his interment in Kensal Green was taxed and his disinterment and removal across the water to New York was expensive.

There were some accounts to settle after his death which took more money still. All this in justice to Artemus Ward's ex-agent and executor and my friend Mr Hingston. But more, after a strict observation of affairs on this side of the Atlantic and in England, after conversations innumerable with Ward's friends in both countries, not excepting his executors and his own mother, I can but say that Artemus Ward's property has not only not been economized but that it has been extravagantly drawn upon. This is the opinion of his intimate friends almost without exception and also of his mother. I do not cast any reflections upon Mr Hingston. I make no personal accusations but I do say that there might and should be more coming to Artemus Ward's mother out of his estate than will be realized.

Mr Hingston [illegible] his two children [illegible] time ago [illegible] by one of Ward's executors within [illegible] Of course I took it in gold. [illegible] children [illegible] Notwithstanding Ward's executors were very reserved and reticent in regard to Ward's affairs when I was in London (one of the [illegible] knowing of our intimacy and of the fact of my having left Ward's mother shortly previous at [illegible] an extremely anxious frame of mind in regard to her son's estate [illegible] I saw and learned enough [illegible] me that the executors should have been assisted by an auditor.

Bills were rendered against Artemus Ward's estate that were perfectly absurd and ridiculous in their extravagance, and I saw one bill of about $167 in gold which [illegible] was just or even contracted by Ward and Mr Hingston also expressed his [illegible] regard to the matter. But [illegible] understand [illegible] has forwarded all [illegible] to Ward's executors [illegible] and as figures won't lie [illegible] satisfy themselves and the public [illegible] the money has all gone. As far as all information goes now there is [illegible] $1 000 or $2 000 besides the real estate [illegible] Hudson.

There is neither a stake nor a stone to mark the place where poor Ward now sleeps and more [illegible] Ward's [illegible] monument.

Yet in face of these and other unfortunate facts I tried to increase this small sum. I have raised for the purpose of building a monument by giving an entertainment consisting of a short and humorous lecture on Ward myself assisted by the Portland Band and some other of the best musical talent of the city and the generous hearted citizens seconded my efforts and showed their affection for poor Ward by purchasing $57 worth of tickets leaving me minus [illegible] $30 for expenses. It was [illegible] worse by the generosity of the performers.

I have only to say in conclusion that Ward's property so far only shows about $1 000. It may amount to more and I sincerely hope it for his mother's sake at all. I am yours and the public's very obedient servant.

Outrages in the South—Exaggerated Reports from Rebel Sources

[illegible] the country are protected.

Gen Grant's Views

WASHINGTON Dec 24—General Grant is reported to have said to Congressmen yesterday with whom he had an interview on the subject of subsidies to another Pacific railroad that no matter what may be said about the prospective benefits we may derive from such roads it is too long to wait and we should make the best possible use of our present resources without increasing the burden of our debts by urging expensive undertakings. [illegible] Congressmen who were at the interview were [illegible] of [illegible] that his frankness [illegible] one half pledged him their support.

The general at the same time gave his opinion that there should be an extra session of the [illegible] Congress [illegible] the present Congress [illegible] short term there would be barely time to pass appropriations. It was doubtful whether the great question of finance can be cared for in so short a time.

The Press and Gen Grant

NEW YORK, Dec 24—The Tribune comments on and extols remarks of Grant made yesterday and says this simple declaration will save millions to the treasury. Let economy be the word and the country will respond. Any Congressman who presumes to stand in the way will be rebuked by the people. Grant is right and the country will give him its whole support.

The Sun says: "We can be wrong in stating that E B Washburne will take office in Grant's Administration as Secretary of the Interior."

Final Proclamation of Amnesty

WASHINGTON Dec 25—The President's amnesty proclamation dated December 25th is issued to day:

WHEREAS The authorities of the Federal Government having been re-established in all States and Territories within the jurisdiction of the United States it is believed that such reservations and exceptions as stated in said proclamations which were deemed necessary and proper may now be relinquished, that universal amnesty for participation in said rebellion extended to all will renew fully and restore confidence and fraternal feeling among the whole people and their respect for and attachment to the National Government designed by its patriotic founders for general good.

Now therefore be it known that I, Andrew Johnson President by virtue of the power vested in me by the Constitution proclaim and declare unconditionally and without reservation to all and every person who directly or indirectly participated in the late insurrection or rebellion, full pardon and amnesty for the offense of treason against the United States or adhering to their enemies during the war with the restoration of all the rights and privileges and amnesties under the Constitution and laws which have been made in pursuance thereof. In testimony whereof &c.

The full pardon and amnesty includes Jeff Davis, Breckenridge, Thompson, Slidell and all others who directly or indirectly engaged in the late rebellion.

Philadelphia News

PHILADELPHIA Dec 25—Christmas day is being observed in the usual style.

At the house of John M Donald, in the southern section of the city the family went to sleep in a room with a coal fire in the stove. Gas escaped into the room and the whole family were suffocated. One of the daughters is dead and another is not expected to recover.

Early this morning the chair factory of Cray man & Co No 119 North Front street, was entirely destroyed by fire—loss heavy. Several firemen were injured by falling ladders.

The Railroad War

NEW YORK Dec 25—The Sun says of the proposed adjustment between the Central and Erie Railroad that it contemplates an alliance of interests of the two companies. Both will be allowed secure and unbroken connection with the West, thus giving benefits to New York, Chicago and St Louis. In consideration of this arrangement the pending suits against Vanderbilt were to be withdrawn or suffered to fall and no warrant or injunct on shall be obtained from the New York Central. Vanderbilt has withdrawn all hostilities from the management of financial operations and schemes of extension and the two companies agree to connect their respective roads as allies. It is certain that such scheme of adjustment is now approaching perfection and unless it is interrupted by unforeseen obstacles, it will be perfected on or before the 1st of January.

Southern States

MEMPHIS Dec 23—The Avalanche's Little Rock special says General Babcock and [illegible] left for [illegible] to night. It appears they were not authorized to investigate the militia outrages. All the militia except twenty are to be withdrawn from Lewisburg and the citizens are to be allowed to form a company. The civil authorities of Conway county are to preserve order. The Conway refugees are preparing to return home.

[illegible]

A [illegible] two men [illegible] were murdered [illegible] on Thursday night. The house was [illegible] and the bodies consumed. [illegible] in some negroes in the neighborhood.

Military Division of the Pacific

[illegible] Hall [illegible] the [illegible] affairs in this Military Division is [illegible] In the three Departments Alaska Columbia and California [illegible] which [illegible] the military force consists of two [illegible] regiments of infantry In Alaska [illegible] five companies of artillery [illegible] of infantry Gen Halleck [illegible] of the Indian tribes [illegible] anything is known [illegible] the whole number [illegible] Six military posts are established [illegible] each garrison [illegible]

In the Department of the Columbia there are twenty [illegible] viz [illegible] regiment of infantry two companies of artillery and eight companies of cavalry The number of military posts in the Department is fifteen Gen Halleck warmly commends Gen Crook for the energy and skill he has displayed in subduing the Indians in this Department It is intimated that some of the military posts in the heretofore hostile country may be withdrawn next year

Of the troops in the Department of California, eleven companies are employed in the State of California, eight companies in the State of Nevada, and twenty nine companies in the Territory of Arizona The military operations in Arizona have been remarkably successful The farming interest of the Territory notwithstanding Indian depredations is steadily growing and many military posts are now supplied by the products of the country at much less expense than formerly

The Chilian Exposition In April next an Exposition of South American production and industry will be opened at Valparaiso The California papers urge that articles be sent from that State and Oregon as it is understood that articles from this quarter will be readily received At any rate it is urged that competent persons should be present from our Pacific States to make observations upon South American industry The Chilians have much skill in mining and reduce some descriptions of ores much more successfully and profitably than we have yet learned to do A San Francisco paper says They have new amalgamation processes of merit that we do not hear of except from limited personal sources They have undergone long since the raw mining and metallurgical experiences in which North American miners and capitalists delight to flounder and to which 95 per cent succumb from want of existing knowledge or experience in that which they are undertaking to do They are utilizing the chemicals of their alkali plains and furnishing the world with the principal ingredient to make powder They have commenced building their railroad over the Andes.

For the "Herald" The Sacramento Reporter, like our neighbor of the Herald, is extremely indignant because loyal Missourians have disfranchised those Democrats who were "absent" from the State during the rebellion battling for the Confederate cause To which complaint the Union responds "Instead of disfranchising them for this exercise of their 'constitutional rights, the people of Missouri who stayed at home, should have allowed the 'absent Democrats' to come back to the polls between fights, and vote That would have been truly Democratic and perfectly constitutional Thus we should have recognized the same 'great constitutional principle' in regard to 'absent Democrats' as in regard to absent States Each had perfect right to absent itself or himself and to 'carry arms' and to shoot, 'firing low,' so as to be sure to hurt somebody All this time the constitutional rights of those gay and festive political picnickers remained intact and unchanged Waiting for a Cromwell —There is a Democratic paper in San Francisco the Dispatch whose editor is actually a greater simpleton than those of his brethren in Oregon who are waiting to see if Grant will not turn Democrat The California editor heads an article, "General Grant, will he do it?" under which caption he proceeds in this strain "Mr Johnson was afraid of Congress Congress is afraid of General Grant He can force that body to accept of his policy or change theirs So great is his power that he could with impunity, if he chose to do so, dissolve the present Congress in the same mode and manner that Cromwell adopted to get rid of the original rump There we have it! Grant is not only expected to Johnsonize but to go much further than Johnson What can cure these people of their revolutionary longings?

Reduction of the Debt

To enable any one interested in the matter to perceive at a glance the condition of the national debt and the amount of its reduction since the close of the war, we present the following official figures from the report of the Secretary of the Treasury

Amount of the adjusted debt in April, 1865	$2 366 955 077 34
War debts adjusted since April 1865	630 431 126 90
Total debt of the Government at close of war	2 997 386 203 24
Total debt on the 1st November 1868	2 527 129 552 82
Reduction since April 1865	$4[illegible] 6 0 42

The last figures show the apparent reduction But the present amount of the debt is augmented by the Pacific railroad bonds and the sum paid for Alaska These sums together amount to $49 394 000 With these the debt on the 1st November last would have been $2 477 7[illegible] 552 82 or [illegible] less than in April 1865

The Speakership In reply to Eastern journals which say that the next Speaker of the House of Representatives should be an Eastern man as the West has got about every thing else the Chicago Tribune very properly says that the next Speaker should be an Eastern man if one better qualified can be found in the East than in the West not otherwise It is true that the West has got everything else the reason is she is possessed of the best qualified men for various high offices The West has got out the habit of preferring first class men for civil as well as military employment The brains and enterprise of the East are chiefly [illegible] in [illegible] stock jobbing and gambling in Wall street

High Grounds Postmaster General Randall the leading bread and butterist of the administration takes very lofty grounds in his annual report in justification of the large increase of expenditures in the Postoffice Department under his management He says

The increase of the expense of the postal service based as it is upon public necessity and public demand instead of being cause of [illegible] is a subject of congratulation Suppose a Radical should talk in this way about the public expenditures – what a fine text it would afford for numberless homilies on "Radical extravagance"

Happily Characterized —The Oakland (Cal) News has an article on the "Jeremy Diddlers" of the press, which contains some sharp points whose incisive thrust may be felt by certain of this tribe who have occasionally afflicted Oregon The immediate object of the article is to rebuke a journalistic bummer who not many months ago was employed in this State, but who, having become a debtor to every whisky shop where he could get credit, and having brought the journal and the party he was professedly laboring for into disrepute was dismissed and sent back to California where he is now employed, much to the discredit of honorable journalism Of the Bohemian vagabonds of which this person is a type the News says "They are fellows of the meaner sort in the profession, who, when they 'play out' their little stock of journalistic jabbering, step off into another locality and then peddle off their pieces with all the flourish of originality We say we have watched these so called editors who travel from one place to another with their carpet sack full of all the old stale trash which they have ever written or stolen and which they are ready to rehash for a pittance at short notice on the same principle that a Punch and Judy showman exhibits his performance wherever he can find a gaping audience to witness his exhibitions But what has most forcibly struck us in connection with this class of seedy and needy fellows is that the greater the charlatan the louder does he prate about his own abilities This description exactly fits a couple of adventurers who came to Oregon no great while ago, and who by puffing themselves tried to make a great sensation as able and brilliant editors Both miserably failed Their little stock of journalistic jabbering could last but a short time in a community so intelligent as Oregon

One day while promenading the streets of the town
With ... own
I met an old friend whom my taste did not flatter
For he asked in ... Who is your Hatter

My good friend I answered ... which I have none,
'Tis long since I made the acquaintance of one;
My head gear I know is ... going to seed
But I'll visit your Hatter if you'll take the lead

Agreed ... he replied as we sauntered along
And making our way through the gay busy throng
Each puffing ... silence ... cigar
We stopped at the Corner—at Muessdorffer's Bazaar

We found the Emporium of Fashion well stored
With Hats and Caps ...
I was speedily suited in price and style
And observed my friend with a satisfied smile
... in most other matters
Is unerring ... Muessdorffer's the Hatter of Hatters

Let the leader of Fashion ... course as he may
And the Hatter whatever ... may say
But Corner Morrison and Front streets always for me
For Muessdorffer's the Hatter of Portland is he!

HATS! HATS! HATS!

FOR EVERYBODY

Are now to be found at MUESSDORFFER'S New Hat Store Corner Morrison and Front streets which will be OPENED TO-DAY Dec 1 ...

Decision in Bankruptcy

[illegible] District Court, District of Oregon — De[illegible]. In the matter of J. J. and C. W. Walton, Involuntary Bankrupts.

Motion [illegible] to expunge the claim [illegible] the list of claims proved [illegible] said bankrupts. [illegible] was made [illegible] July 28, 1868. It sub[illegible]

That at and before the filing of the petition [illegible] J. J. and C. W. Walton were and still are indebted to the deponent in the sum of $1,[illegible] [illegible] due on a promissory note, given [illegible] on March [illegible] 1868 for money [illegible] said bankrupts, and that said deponent [illegible] C. W. Walton was [illegible] indebted to deponent in the sum [illegible] for wines and liquors [illegible] C. W. Walton in 1867 and 1868.

That [illegible] he [illegible] whether the deponent had received security for such sums [illegible]

In conclusion the proof states as required by the act [illegible] were [illegible] the proceedings under the bankrupt act [illegible] no bargain [illegible] has been made [illegible] deponent to sell transfer or dispose of said claim or any part thereof against said bankrupts.

The grounds of the motion are substantially these:

1. That proof is informal.

2. It does not appear from the proof whether the claim for borrowed money is intended to be proved against the individual estates of the bankrupts, or against the estate of the partnership consisting of J. J. and C. W. Walton and known as J. J. Walton and Son, and

3. It does not appear from the proof whether the claim for wines and liquors is intended to be proved against the partnership estate, or the individual estate of C. W. Walton.

The first objection to the proof is well taken. Here are two distinct debts against different estates included in one proof or deposition. When parties are adjudged bankrupts the result is or may be that several distinct estates are to be administered in the proceeding. First there is the estate and debts of the company or partnership, and then the separate estate and debts of each individual included in the partnership. Proof of a debt against either of these estates ought not to include or be joined with the proof of a debt against either of the others. The Act [illegible] provides that all the creditors of the company and the separate creditors of each partner shall be allowed to prove their respective debts," and that a separate account shall be kept of the partnership property and of the separate estate of each member thereof."

The natural inference from these and similar provisions contained in section [illegible] is that these partnership and individual estates are to be administered separately, and therefore the proof of a debt or debts against either should not be joined with the like proof against another. Besides there is nothing elsewhere in the act or in the General Orders or Forms that countenances the contrary practice.

By the second and third objections the question is raised whether the proof is sufficiently certain or not.

The claim for money loaned is not proved against the partnership of J. J. Walton and son, but against the individuals who constitute that partnership. The consideration of the debt is stated to be money loaned J. J. and C. W. Walton. The inference is that it was loaned to them as individuals and that their individual estates are liable for it, but not the partnership estate—at least until the partnership debts are first satisfied. But another inference may be drawn from the statement in the proof, and from other circumstances it is highly probable that the creditor intended to prove this debt against the partnership estate. In this respect the proof is uncertain. If intended to establish a debt against the partnership estate, it should state that the firm or company, describing it by its firm name and the individuals who composed it—was indebted to the creditor and how and for what amount. As to the claim for wines and liquors, it seems to me to be stated with sufficient certainty in this particular. It is stated that C. W. Walton is indebted to the creditor for articles sold him. This is plainly the proof of a debt against the separate estate of C. W. Walton only.

But the proof does not state that the deponent had not bargained to sell either of the claims stated, but only "said claim against said Bankrupt." This allegation, whatever was intended by the deponent, only includes one claim and that the one against a single person. The only claim stated which answers to this description is the one against C. W. Walton. The other claim is stated to be against the bankrupts—both father and son. Then as to the claim for money loaned to J. J. and C. W. Walton there is in the proof no allegation that deponent had not bargained to sell or dispose of it.

By the act (sec. 22) the Court is required "to reject all claims not duly proved."

A claim may be said to be duly proved when the statement of the deponent, if true, establish prima facie the existence of the debt and the present right of the creditor to payment of the same out of the estate of the bankrupt. But a claim is not duly proved when any allegation which the act requires to be made in the proof concerning it, is omitted—as that the creditor has not bargained to sell or dispose of it, or where the proof is not made in conformity with the forms prescribed and the rules and practice of the court.

The motion is allowed. Let the claim be rejected.

DEADY, J.

"LET JEEMES GO."—The Land We Love gives a model letter from a young lady whose sweetheart was in the Fifth South Carolina Regiment, to Mr. Davis, President of the late Confederacy, asking for a furlough for her lover to come home and get married.

"Dear Mr. President: I want you to let Jeemes Glaney, of Company [illegible], 5th S. C. Regiment, come home and get married. Jeemes is willin', I is willin,' my mammy is willin' his mammy is willin', but Jeemes' captain he aint willin'. Now, when we's willin, ceptin Jeemes' captain, I think you might let up and let Jeemes come. I'll make him go straight back when he's done got married and fight just as hard as ever. Your affectionate friend," etc.

Mr. Davis wrote on the letter "Let Jeemes go," and Jeemes came home married the affectionate correspondent of Mr. Davis and returned to his regiment, and did fight as well as ever.

The loss by the fire at Fort Lafayette is estimated at $100,000, upon which there is of course no insurance. The loss by partial destruction of the Fort is estimated at $20,000. The amount of ordnance destroyed is not known, or the actual amount of powder stored in the magazine. Of the armament there were destroyed twenty-two ten-inch Rodman guns, with their carriages, together with one dismounted gun, ten one-hundred pound Parrot guns and carriages, and twelve thirty-one pounders.

The number of deaths from small pox at the Sandwich Islands in 1852 was estimated at 10,000. The principal cause assigned for this terrible mortality was want of proper vaccine matter. It was considered unsafe to use that obtained from the natives, as there is not one of them whose system is entirely free from all taint of disease. This is said to be a melancholy fact, and is attributed to the immorality not only of the present generation, but of those preceding it.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the best paper in the State and its circulation and influence are greater than those of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays especial attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TELEGRAMS FROM THE EAST AND EUROPE

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

Commercial Reports

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be as it has been the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.
